NATIONAL SEARCH

CLARKSON COLLEGE, a private, accredited, non-profit health sciences college in Omaha, Nebraska, seeks a dynamic nursing leader to serve as Director of Undergraduate Nursing. Reporting to the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Director is responsible for the implementation of high-quality Baccalaureate Nursing programs.

Applications and nominations are invited.

The Opportunity

Clarkson College has prepared students to professionally provide high-quality, ethical, and compassionate health care services for more than 130 years. The College's devotion to excellence in education began in 1888, when the Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital accepted its first nursing student.

The College proudly carries on the tradition of excellence today through a broad range of undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs designed to prepare individuals for both entry-level and highly advanced roles in various health care disciplines. More than 350 health care professionals graduate annually in Nursing, Health Care Education and Leadership, Physical Therapist Assistant, Radiography, Medical Imaging, Health Care Business and Administration, Health Information Management, and Community Health. It also maintains an educational partnership with Nebraska Medicine, one of the largest and most respected medical campuses in the region.

Students receive a multifaceted education focused not only on academics, but also on care, integrity, and a commitment to excellence. The dedicated instructors enable Clarkson College graduates to achieve licensing pass rates consistently above the state and national averages. Most recently, nursing graduates had a 100% first-time board pass rate on the BSN NCLEX exam.

The academic programs also weave service learning into the curriculum, and students' commitments to caring begin the moment they enter the classroom. Along with College faculty and staff, students complete a combined estimated 12,000 hours of service every year.

The College has experienced consistent enrollment the past several years, with 1,192 students currently learning on campus and online. An average student-to-faculty ratio of 16-1 creates a learning environment that guides students toward educational and professional success.

Clarkson College has maintained continuous accreditation with The Higher Learning Commission since 1984 for all programs. The Bachelor of Science in Nursing, Master of Science in Nursing, and Doctorate of Nursing Practice also are accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing (ACEN).

The Nursing Programs

Clarkson College's nine undergraduate and graduate nursing programs provide options for both first-time college students and practicing nurses at every level. Undergraduate programs are Licensed Practical Nurse to BSN, RN to BSN, and Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Graduate programs include RN to MSN, Master of Science in Nursing, Post-Graduate Certificate in five advanced practice areas, BSN to DNP - Nurse Anesthesia, BSN to DNP, and DNP Post-Master's.

The most sought-after degree at Clarkson College is the Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Currently, 432 students are enrolled across the three undergraduate BSN programs. Class-size in these programs are kept to a minimum and are taught by instructors with extensive experience in the nursing field. Hands-on practice in the state-of-the-art skills lab and simulation lab, as well as in a variety of hospitals, clinics, and other public health care settings, begins in the student's first year. While the majority of BSN courses are classroom-based, students have the option to complete a portion of their coursework online. More information about the Nursing programs is available at <https://www.clarksoncollege.edu/nursing/index#degrees>.
