THE OPPORTUNITY

The University of West Florida (UWF) seeks adjunct faculty to teach and facilitate classes remotely for its online programs in Computer Science in the Department of Computer Science. Faculty will facilitate learning through online course instruction to students enrolled in these programs.

These adjunct faculty will report to the Chair of the Department of Computer Science. Graduate courses are taught in 8-week sessions (two per semester), and undergraduate courses have 16-week sessions. Classes for Fall Semester 2022 begin August 22 and October 17. The undergraduate classes average 40 students with graduate classes averaging 25 students.

UWF uses Canvas for its online course teaching resources. All of the course modules for these academic programs have been developed and are ready for use.

With a history of more than 50 years of being a leader in education, the University of West Florida offers a variety of online degree programs with a mission to create the next generation of big thinkers. Based in Pensacola, Florida, UWF's forward-thinking programs prepare students for success through creative, collaborative learning experiences. Consistently named a top Military Friendly® School, UWF holds many accreditations and rankings and provides a wealth of benefits for its online students.

UWF Online is approved by the National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreements. The voluntary agreement among member states and U.S. territories establishes comparable national standards for interstate offerings of postsecondary distance-education courses and programs. It is intended to make it easier for students to take online courses offered by postsecondary institutions based in other states.

DEPARTMENT OF COMPUTER SCIENCE

UWF offers Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in Computer Science and in Cybersecurity and a Bachelor of Science in Software Design and Development. Additionally, the Department offers minors and certificates. UWF has been designated as a National Center of Academic Excellence in Cyber Defense Education by the National Security Agency. The B.S. in Computer Science at UWF is accredited by the Computing Accreditation Commission of ABET, <https://www.abet.org>.
